CITL Moves Into Second Year of Peer Teaching Consultation

The GFC Committee for the Improvement of Teaching and Learning (CITL) continues to build its Peer Teaching Consultation Service. Last year, the program was experimental in nature. This year, CITL Co-ordinator Bente Roed Cochran and consultants Roberta Carey, Nursing; Robin Mott, Educational Psychology; Roger Beck and Ray Rasmussen, Business; and Lois Marckworth Stanford, Linguistics, have terra firma as an ally.

Once a request for consultation reaches the CITL office in Assiniboia Hall, a meeting between the consultant and the teacher is fixed. There follows observation of a classroom by the consultant, a one-hour session with a randomly selected portion of the students, the compilation of a preliminary report, feedback from the teacher, and the writing of a full report by the consultant. The latter document goes to the teacher although the consultant, if asked, will relay parts or all of the report to the appropriate department chairman. The program, which is characterized by volunteerism and confidentiality, allows the consultant to mediate between the goals and expectations of both student and teacher.

It is the prerogative of the teacher to indicate just what he/she wants the consultant to consider. The consultant's frame of mind must be that of the open, non-judgmental variety. Carey and Mott say that while a consultant has to enjoy teaching, he/she must have no preconceived notions on how teaching should take place. A good consultant, they believe, must possess favorable communication skills, the ability to be flexible, and the capacity to focus on what the client wants.

It has been their experience that students are very receptive to the process. Their feeling is that if the teacher is making a conscientious effort to improve by bringing in a consultant then the class as a whole is going to profit. Mott claims that she hasn't worked with a group of students that wasn't constructive.

Peer consultation is not necessarily a stepping stone to a wholesale remedial type of activity. A teacher might wish to polish a particular aspect of the profession and/or be interested in getting feedback that he/she might not otherwise get.

Their work has taken Carey and Mott to many different disciplines and resulted in engaging sessions with professors of long standing as well as those just starting out. In some cases the consultant's insights have led the teacher to request continuing assistance. Men and women in equal numbers have availed themselves of the program.

Peer Teaching Consultation Service started in the eastern United States in 1969. Carey and Mott got their start by enrolling in a workshop given by the University of Minnesota. They were then approached by (then) CITL Co-ordinator Morag Pansegrau who noted that release time from one course in their respective Faculties could be arranged if they wanted to be consultants on a regular basis. They did indeed. The upshot was that they served eight clients last fall and another 15 in the winter. Those who are interested in the consultation service are advised to approach CITL at their earliest convenience. □

A good deal of "bread" changed hands in the "Butterdome" last week as in-person registration took place. Early estimates were that the total enrolment at the end of September would be 500 to 1,000 students more than at the corresponding date last year.

Seminar Aims to Make Retirement a Snap

The Boy Scout motto "Be Prepared" can readily be applied to people of greater years, that is, those approaching retirement age. Personnel Services and Staff Relations and the Non-Academic Staff Association recognize that and are thus sponsoring a Pre-Retirement Seminar for non-academic staff.

On 20 and 27 October at the Royal Glenora Club, 11160 River Valley Road (parking is available at no charge), participants can get a large handle on their retirement. The sponsors are of the opinion that "by making careful decisions about health, housing, money, and personal goals, you can approach retirement with confidence and grow in new ways—ways which are interesting and rewarding."

On the morning of 20 October, Pre-Retirement Counsellor (and seminar leader) Thelma Scambler will discuss "Retirement—What's It All About." Barbara Satterlee, Pension Administrator, will speak on the University's pension plan, and Chris Belchamber, Income Security, Health and Welfare Canada, will close the morning portion of the seminar with information on old age security, the Canada Pension Plan and Unemployment Insurance.

Chartered accountant Brent Buchanan, Thorne Riddell Associates, Edmonton, will bring his expertise to bear on "Financial Planning—Income Tax." There will also be a general session on Financial Planning later in the afternoon.

The program for 27 October consists of an address by local lawyer David Manning on "Legal Affairs—Wills, Estate Planning;" "Health and Fitness" remarks by Art Burgess, University Fitness Coordinator; another address by Thelma Scambler ("Life Enrichment—Employment Opportunities, Travel, Volunteerism"); and a panel discussion with University retirees.

Invitations and registration forms have been sent to the 450 NASA employees between 55 and 65 years of age (younger people are not restricted from attending). Space is limited but one or more other seminars will be laid on if the response is outstanding.

Poznansky Appointed Medicine's Associate Dean (Research)

Douglas Wilson, Dean of Medicine, has announced the appointment of Mark Poznansky as Associate Dean (Research), effective immediately. Dr. Poznansky replaces T. A. McPherson, Assistant Dean (Scientific Affairs), who will assist the Faculty during the transition.

In making the announcement, Dean Wilson noted that Dr. Poznansky, Professor of Physiology, has established outstanding research programs in the area of membrane structure and function and in the study of biological macromolecules as carriers of drugs and enzymes. "His research has involved him in collaboration with individuals in the Departments of Biochemistry, Paediatrics and Medicine and has led him to develop numerous contacts in other academic centres and with granting agencies," the Dean said. □

The registration fee of $10 per person includes two lunches, coffee and registration materials. Registration forms and fee(s) should reach Brenda sichordist, and appears frequently in solo recitals or with "Passacaille," his chamber music group. Recently, he began playing theatre organ (since helping to engineer the installation of a 3-manual Wurlitzer in a Geneva school).

MacKenzie, Personnel Services, 2-40 Assiniboia Hall, by 15 October. Cheques are to be made payable to the University of Alberta. □

Bovet has composed more than 100 scores for stage and screen and his organ works have been published by Eulenburg. A recorded concerto for organ and orchestra has been released in the Soviet Union. Most recently, he completed an opera commissioned by Swiss Radio/TV.

Campus Reviews

As part of the process of carrying out systematic reviews under the guidance of the President's Advisory Committee on Campus Reviews (PACCR), the Department of Mathematics is completing the self-study phase of the review process. The other major phase of the process is the site visit and assessment by the Unit Review Committee. In preparation for this second phase, PACCR invites written comment prior to 10 October 1984.

Submissions are for the use of the Unit Review Committee and will be held in confidence by the members of that committee. Submissions should be sent to: Mrs. L. Pearson, PACCR Office, W4-13 Chemistry Building, Attention: The Mathematics Unit Review Committee.

University Professorships

The Selection Committee for University Professors will be considering nominees for University Professorships in the fall. This title honors professors whose academic, professional and community contributions have been exceptionally meritorious.

Nominations should be submitted to the Vice-President (Academic) no later than 19 October 1984, but before making any nominations people are asked to study the criteria, copies of which can be obtained from Mrs. Pamela Plaskitt, 2-5 University Hall, telephone 432-4715.

Russ Motyka to Retire

Russ Motyka, Building Maintenance Manager (Physical Plant), will retire from the University after 23 years of service. An informal reception to honor Mr. Motyka will take place Thursday, 20 September, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the V.I.P. Room, Lister Hall.

All members of staff and all friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Motyka are invited to attend the reception to wish them farewell.

The Canadian Red Cross Society will hold a Blood Donor Clinic 1 to 5 October on the main floor of the Central Academic Building. The Clinic's hours are 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Overhead Projectors Secured

Technical Services advises that, in past years, there were many instances of a lecturer arriving in a classroom to discover the overhead projector missing—a frustrating experience. To overcome this problem, the overhead projectors in most centrally scheduled classrooms have been chained and locked into position. It is hoped that this will not hinder the lecturer in any way.

If anyone has any comments or suggestions about this change, Audio Visual Services in the Humanities AV Centre, telephone 432-2183, would be most happy to discuss them with you.

Videodisc Space Available

The Department of Computing Services is producing a laser videodisc, composed entirely of slides, for use in January 1985. Anyone wishing to archive slides on laser videodisc can do so by purchasing space on the disc at $1 per slide. Copies of the disc will sell for approximately $25.
